Christmas Island Christmas
Christmas 2013
Annual Collections

Dear Collectors

Welcome to the final edition of the Australian Stamp Bulletin for 2013 and to the remaining stamp issues in our program for this year. The year has been a busy one, and it is with a sense of satisfaction that we can look forward to an end-of-year break.

The success of our program each year would not be possible without the ongoing support of our collectors and philatelic business associates. That support helps maintain the popularity of Australian stamp designs and associated products worldwide. I am extremely proud to be able to oversee a program of such diversity in the range of themes and applications used in Australian stamp production.

This year Australian philately has been highlighted on the world stage with the success of Australia 2013 – yet another reason to say “thank you”. The attendance level was a reflection of the interest in Australian philately and I am still receiving congratulations from collectors around the world for the activities and special releases that were part of the show.

Looking ahead at the remaining stamp issues for this year, we present our Christmas stamp issues.

You will also find details about this year's annual collections and the exclusive sheetlet included there in. Not only is the 2013 Annual Collection of Stamps a must for any serious collector, it is also a wonderful gift and culmination of the important milestones and celebrations throughout the year.

For children on your Christmas list, consider a “starter kit” of an album and an assortment of stamps. A simple gift in itself, it may provide a child with the opportunity to experience the same level of enjoyment you do. I wish you all a very safe and happy Christmas.

A special stamp release will celebrate the christening of

His Royal Highness Prince George of Cambridge

This stamp issue will be the first royal christening celebrated by Australia Post through stamps.

Christenings by tradition are times of anointment, celebration and introduction to the church community.

British royal christenings tend to be small private ceremonies taking place behind closed doors.

In keeping with tradition the Archbishop of Canterbury will preside over the ceremony to take place at The Royal Chapel, St James's Palace.

The Christening of HRH Prince George will be held 23 October 2013.

The stamp issue will be released in early 2014.

The christening of His Royal Highness Prince George Alexander Louis of Cambridge will take place 23 October 2013.

Prince George was born on 22 July in London's St Mary's Hospital and is third in line to the British throne, following Prince Charles, and his father, William the Duke of Cambridge. Australia Post will celebrate the event with the release of a stamp issue.

It is expected that many traditions associated with a British royal christening will be observed, although a change to the venue is a step away for the new parents.

St James's Palace in London is the senior palace of the sovereign and home to both main Chapels Royal – The Queen's Chapel and The Chapel Royal where the christening is to take place.

The term Chapel Royal originally referred to an establishment of priests and singers to serve the spiritual needs of the Sovereign. Over time the term has become associated with a number of chapels used by monarchs for worship.

Imagery used for the stamps will be based on those from the official christening ceremony.

Available now is a new postal and numismatic cover released to celebrate the birth of HRH Prince George of Cambridge. This special release PNC uses the instant stamp from the Birth of a Prince stamp issue released in July.

Melbourne illustrator Andrew Hopgood is renowned for his various illustration styles. He is particularly popular as a children's book illustrator.

The Christmas Island Christmas stamp issue takes a colourful approach to the festive season through illustrations of Santa and Christmas Island fauna. The island was named by Captain William Mynors, who sailed past it on 25 December 1643.

Santa has taken to the air, but not in his traditional mode of transport. Here, he rides on the back of a Frigatebird, with a banner streaming out behind him, announcing tidings of the festive season.

In the other design, a Frigatebird and a Red Crab ferry a payload of presents in a hot-air balloon, while Christmas Island can be seen far below in the blue waters of the Indian Ocean. The skies in the minisheet are alive with a menagerie of local inhabitants: Green Turtles, Golden Bosunbirds, Frigatebirds, Abbott's Boobys, Red Crabs and a Blue Crab.

Australia Post has issued Christmas stamps since 1957. The religious stamps for Christmas 2013 are details of a minisheet that depicts the Nativity scene. The Virgin Mary tenderly cradles the baby Jesus while Joseph and shepherds look on.

The religious stamps and minisheet are the work of Australian artist, Paul Newton, whose work is held in many Australian and overseas collections, including the National Portrait Gallery in Canberra. Newton has a love of religious art, and was recently commissioned to paint 32 religious pictures for the interior of the Domus Australia guest house chapel in Rome.

The festive stamps depict familiar trappings of Christmas – a Christmas tree, a gift, a lit candle and a bell.
