Hello Collectors

Welcome to a new-look Stamp Bulletin for 2020 and a change to the way we present forthcoming stamp issues and products. You'll notice that the new format emphasises the stamp subject visually and, for easy reference, places all stamp issue details, including technical specifications, in one place.

I'm excited to introduce Australia Post's new stamp concept, titled MyStamps. This service allows you to create your own stamp designs using a range of non-standard stamp shapes. It's a lot of fun! Simply upload your images, select the shape and denomination (either domestic or international), it's that easy. You can order via the Australia Post online shop or through one of the 27 trial Post Offices for instant printing.

MyStamps is designed for social and everyday mail users, event organisers and business. For collectors, we've produced a MyStamps sheetlet pack, which includes all nine stamp shapes available. Refer to page 10 for details.

And some news on the Australia Post Australian Legends Award, too. Beginning in 2020, we will release this annual stamp issue at a time that suits the issue subject for the year, rather than fixing it to late January, as has been tradition. This will allow us to better align the issue with any events associated with the recipients of the award and their particular field of endeavour.

Australia boasts an impressive array of mammal species, many of which have become iconic symbols at home and overseas. This stamp issue presents four, fascinating Australian mammals: a ground-dwelling marsupial – the Common Wombat (Vombatus ursinus); two tree-dwelling marsupials – the Koala (Phascolarctos cinereus) and the Sugar Glider (Petaurus breviceps); and a monotreme – the Short-beaked Echidna (Tachyglossus aculeatus).

The four animals span a variety of physical and behavioural traits. There's the soft fur of the territorial, nocturnal Koala, which rarely leaves its home range and eats up to 500 grams of eucalyptus leaves in one day; the defensive spikes of the shy echidna, which rolls into a ball when threatened; the stocky stature of the strong wombat, which is the largest burrowing mammal in Australia; and the tiny, omnivorous Sugar Glider, which literally "flies" through the trees.

These colourful stamps will bring joy and delight to the recipient of your thoughtful card or letter. A stamped envelope sent through the post may be old-fashioned in this era of email and other electronic media, but it is a much more gracious and intimate way of conveying sincere and heartfelt sentiments.

The designs can be used for a range of occasions, including weddings and engagements, special birthdays including the arrival of a new baby, graduations, Saint Valentine's Day, or just for general celebration. Two stamps are designed for more corporate use, both showing the Southern Cross, with one also featuring the kangaroo paw, the other the map of Australia. All stamps can be adapted as Personalised Stamps™, where a photograph of the customer's choice features in a tab attached to the stamp.

The representations of the Rat and other animals of the Chinese zodiac are based on characters depicting three of the four roles from traditional Peking Opera.

$13.80 2052098
Zodiac sheetlet

The clever Rat is the first of the 12 animal signs in the Chinese zodiac. According to the traditional story, the order of the calendar was determined by the Jade Emperor's race. This race included a river crossing, and while the cunning Rat could not swim, he managed to traverse the river on the back of the Ox, who was an efficient swimmer. Just before the Ox reached the opposite bank, the Rat leapt off to take first place.

The Year of the Rat begins on 25 January 2020. The Rat symbolises good luck and wealth. Those born in the Year of the Rat are said to be imaginative, generous, quick-tempered and intelligent. Rat years over the last century were 1900, 1912, 1924, 1936, 1948, 1960, 1972, 1984, 1996 and 2008.

NORFOLK ISLAND
NSW 2899

One of the earliest examples of botanical art from geographically remote Norfolk Island, home to a wealth of native flora, is attributed to convict John Doody, who arrived in the colony of New South Wales in 1791 on board the Admiral Barrington. The vessel was captained by William Paterson, who was dispatched to Norfolk Island, taking Doody with him as a servant. It is believed Doody is responsible for a collection of watercolour, ink and pencil works held in the State Library of NSW, which visually record around 50 flora species.

One stamp shows Ungeria floribunda, which belongs to Norfolk Island's only endemic flora genus. The other design shows Lagunaria patersonia, which is commonly known as the Norfolk Island Hibiscus or the white oak.

Spanning almost 9,000 square kilometres, the Wet Tropics World Heritage Area is located between Townsville and Cooktown in northern Queensland. The area boasts one of the largest rainforest wilderness areas in Australia.

The tree-dwelling mammals of the Wet Tropics come out at night to socialise and feed. This stamp issue features three such mammals: the solitary, near-threatened Bennett’s Tree-kangaroo (Dendrolagus bennettianus); the rare, white version of the Lemuroid Ringtail Possum (Hemibelideus lemuroides); and the endangered Spectacled Flying-fox (Pteropus conspicillatus), a mega-bat and vital forest pollinator. Each species is illustrated by renowned wildlife artist Kevin Stead.

The high proportion of threatened species in the Wet Tropics is due to many factors, including forest clearing, changes to water and fire regimes, and climate change. As a result of extreme temperatures in recent years, the possum and flying-fox featured in this stamp issue have experienced significant population declines.

Australians who avidly follow various sporting codes rely on the insights of experienced sporting commentators through television, radio, print and digital media. The six acclaimed communicators featured in this stamp issue were household names, true heroes of their respective sports.

Cricket great Richie Benaud OBE (1930–2015) retired from the sport in 1964 to become a celebrated cricket journalist and commentator in Britain and Australia.

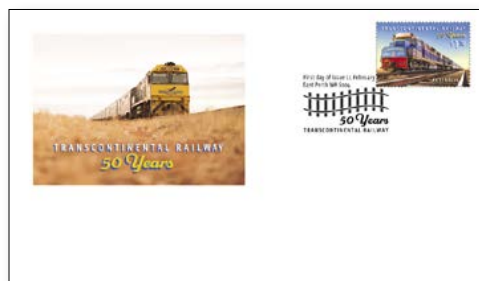

Rugby league footballer, Reg Gasnier AM (1939–2014), embarked on a media career as writer and broadcaster after retirement in 1967.

Les Murray AM (1945–2017), well-known football (soccer) communicator, was largely responsible for raising the status of the game in this country.

Lou Richards MBE (1923–2017), Jack Dyer OAM (1913–2003) and Bob Davis (1928–2011) were all noted VFL (Victorian Football League) players. They became popular commentators of the sport.

This issue commemorates the 50th anniversary of the completion of the transcontinental standard-gauge railway. With the agreement and collaboration of the Commonwealth and state governments, standardisation of interstate rail gauges commenced in 1930 and finally completed in 1995 with the Melbourne to Adelaide route.

The first uninterrupted transcontinental freight service commenced on 12 January 1970 and the new passenger service over the same route left Sydney on 23 February 1970, arriving in Perth on the morning of 26 February. This passenger service was named the Indian-Pacific after the oceans it links.

The stamp depicts the inaugural Indian-Pacific passenger train with the Western Australian L class diesel-electric locomotives 260 and 261. Today the Indian Pacific travels from Sydney to Perth via Adelaide, a 4,352-kilometre journey of around 70 hours that includes the world's longest stretch of straight track (478 kilometres) on the Nullarbor Plain.

Australians have played a key role in medical innovations, technology and theory. This stamp issue recognises four medical innovations developed over the last century or so, in which Australians have played a critical role.

In 1991, Professor Ian Frazer and Dr Jian Zhou developed the technology that enabled the world's first vaccine to prevent cancer; approved in 2006, Gardasil protects against many strains of the human papillomavirus (HPV). The chest-implanted pacemaker was created in 1926 by physician anaesthetist Dr Mark Lidwill MD and physicist Edgar H. Booth. Professor Fiona Wood and her colleague Marie Stoner recognised tissue engineering technology's potential in treating burns victims. In the 1990s they developed an aerosol spray delivery method to apply skin cells directly onto the wound site.

Australian pathologist Howard Florey and German biochemist Ernst Chain are credited with making possible the medical use of penicillin first successfully trialled on a human in 1941.

Important notice

On occasion currency has been sent to the Australian Philatelic Bureau in the mail to cover the cost of an order. Whilst this practice is rare, we would like to remind all our customers that this method of payment cannot be accepted.

Australia Post also wishes to advise that, in keeping with guidelines for mail processing as set by the Australian Postal Corporation Act 1989, we are unable to return any currency by mail.

Planned withdrawal dates may be changed without notice to meet emergent postal requirements. Advice of such changes will be published retrospectively in the first available Stamp Bulletin Australia. Contact the Australian Philatelic Bureau (FREECALL 1800 331 794 within Australia, +61 3 9887 0033 overseas) or visit auspost.com.au/stamps for the current price at the time you place your order. Hours of operation are 8:30am to 5pm AEDT. The price of stamps and related products, souvenir items and numismatics are correct at the time of printing but are subject to change. The price of numismatic products is subject to valuation changes.
